Circles of Care at Edison State College

featuring

Keynote—Ron Davis

“A Recipe for Effective Discipline”

Ron is a licensed psychologist and nationally certified school psychologist, specializing in early childhood. Currently he is an associate lecturer at the University of Toledo teaching early childhood and special education courses. He is a nationally recognized keynote speaker and has presented at numerous workshops. Audiences have described Ron as highly engaging, funny, informative, practical, realistic and enthusiastic. You won't want to miss his insights into one of the most common issues all teachers share - children's behavior. Do you TEACH discipline or MANAGE it in your classroom? Which is the best? Ron will show you a fun way to look at behavior and what you can do to help children learn more appropriate behaviors through positive techniques.

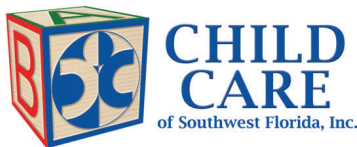

Special Guest— Ron Mohl

“Mix, Match, and Move: Healthy Habits with Movement”

Come ready to move and explore with activities that focus on children's motor development and provide for obesity prevention. Ron's presentation will engage you with music that can be infused throughout the day in a health way! It's packed with strategies that promote healthy nutrition and physical activity. Ron has been a professional development trainer for Lakeshore Learning Materials for 11 years. His trainings encourage academic enrichment through play with hands on activities.

AND there's even more— “Mar.” is returning with her music, movement & fun!
